Cultural Commission Denies Weston Request For Leave

On Monday evening the Carmel Cultural Commission held a special meeting.

Only two items were on the agenda.

One concerned carpeting for the Sunset auditorium, the other was an application for a six-months' leave of absence from Sunset Manager Cole Weston.

And the Commission took up the last matter first.

With the press and City Administrator Hugh Bayless excluded, the Commission considered the Weston application behind closed doors for more than an hour. (Bayless acts as the Commission's secretary). Six members of the Commission took part in the closed-door session: Chairman Patricia Paul and Commissioners Ashton Stanley, Dr. James Gilman, D. Paul Medalie, Mrs. Dorothy Green Chapman, and James Pruitt. (Commissioner Lois Renk was absent.)

After the closed-door discussion of the Weston

Martian Memorial Takes Top Sand Castle Honors

The eighth annual Great Sand Castle Contest is history, and Carmel's South Beach has returned almost to its normal appearance.

But Sunday the beach teemed with the milling feet of more than 7000 people from all over northern California, as they kibitzed the more than 350 individuals and teams that were building all manner of sand piles, castles and such.

When all the entries had been inspected by the judges and each had applied his own individual yardstick to selection of the best in the contest, a sort of "curved ziggurat" (a term applied to the winner by Grand Marshal Donald Brown, AIA) titled "Memorial to Michael Valentine Smith" was awarded the "Golden Shovel," symbolic of all that is fine and good in sand castles.

The "Sour Grapes" award for the worst losers went to the Larry List group for its "Less Is More" entry, and at the last moment, Brown and his judges notice a man in red sweatshirt shedding tears of his entry, an entry that was awarded nothing. After an extra award was dreamed up just because they couldn't stand to see a grown man cry, it was learned that he was Dave Bennett of Carmel, a KIDD announcer and president of the Monterey Bay Drinking and Falling-Down Society, which, of course, richly deserved the extra award.

American Legion Services In Carmel Sept. 14

The 28th District of the American Legion, which comprises Monterey, Santa Cruz and San Benito Counties, will hold their Post Everlasting Services in Carmel on Sunday Sept. 14 at 11 a.m. in Devendorf Plaza.

This announcement was made today by Homer Casey, 28th District commander of the Legion. E.A. "Pat" O'Malley, Carmel post commander announced that Carmel Post 512 will be the host.

This selection of Carmel Post 512 is a much sought after selection.

Post Everlasting services are profound and patriotic services honoring Legionnaires and all veterans who have died during the past year. The United States Army Band from Fort Ord will offer the appropriate music for the occasion. Seaside Post 791 will act as the guard of honor with all other County Posts participating.

Mayor Barney Laiolo of Carmel will make the address of welcome.

Local arrangements are being handled by Past Commander Robert Gilmour of Carmel and Alvin B. Chapin of Monterey.

After the services the local post of the Legion will be open for luncheon for all Legionnaires, their friends and all veterans.

The Legion Club is on Dolores at 5th in Carmel.

James Ryan of Carmel Post will be in charge of the refreshments.

BEACH SCENE, SANS SURFERS — Not Coney Island or Atlantic City on the Fourth of July, but the Carmel South Beach Sunday as the 1969 version of the annual Great Sand

Castle Contest got under way. More than 7000 people, 350 of them sand castle designers, architects and/or constructors, jammed the beach for the eighth annual repetition of the event, sponsored by the Monterey Bay Chapter of the American Institute of Architects.

MOON WALK CARRIER CREW — This entry titled "Mission Accomplished" was constructed by personnel from the Naval Postgraduate School three of whom served with Neil Armstrong on the same aircraft carrier. The structure was the Apollo 11 in its life-raft after splashdown. From left, Cmdr. Kenneth I. Fischer of Carmel; Pete Ryssell, Wayne Fostic, Michael Fischer, Dave Straus and Buffie Fischer. Russel, Bostic and Straus served with Armstrong.

THE WINNERS!!! — Symbol of the best in sand castles as determined by the judges of the Great Sand Castle Contest, led by Grand Marshal Donald Brown, is the Golden Shovel Award. This year the team of David Smith, left, of the architectural firm of Burde and Shaw, and Roger Larson of Wallace Holm Associates, won the shovel with their imaginative "Michael Valentine Smith Memorial."

NOVICE CLASS — The Great Sand Castle Contest is for everyone. Young, old, middle aged... elementary school, junior high, middle school, high school... everybody uses this one day to release all the artistic bubblings that have been churning through their psyche all year. Jan Garrison, a student at Carmel's Middle School, won a prize in the Novice Class with her daisy-bedecked "Sun Bather."

ASHES TO ASHES, DUST TO DUST, SAND TO SAND — and what was a "curved ziggurat" and a first prize winner is reduced to the sand from whence it came. It took most of the day to build this Golden Shovel winner, and only seconds to completely level it when the award had been made. Prime movers in the destruction were, from left, Dana Larson, Rhett Smith, Barkley Smith, and a certain photographer's son, name of Fremier, Andy.

Letters To The Editor

CONSTITUTION DAY

Wednesday, Sept. 17, will be the 181st Anniversary of what many students of world history consider the inauguration of the greatest experiment in the government of mankind of all time. There is ample evidence that the Father of this Republic, George Washington, so considered it. Likewise, that he, and most of the delegates to the Convention that framed our Constitution, consciously or sub-consciously, thought of it as the ideologically political framework within which the spiritual pronouncements of The Declaration (Independence) could find tangible and practicable expression in a political structure.

It was indeed, at the time, regarded together with its most illustrious sponsor, George Washington, with the awe and veneration of its dedicated builders, (55 Delegates) as an instrument as could give promise for a future of long endurance (as against transitory) to a nation of free men. It could be thought of as the body whose soul was The Declaration.

We think such a concept wholly apt, since it is the immortal soul that gives direction to the body. Without direction, Man (body) loses identity. Without identity Man (body) becomes meaningless. Meaningless, the equivalent of death, or death itself.

It follows that: To those who treasure a long life for our Republic, the linking of the soul with the body on Sept. 17, 1787, proved an occasion, due as much, possibly more, veneration than that of The Declaration on a Fourth of July of about a decade before.

Unaccountably, so it seems to this writer, as the greatest of paradoxes, that the 17th of September has never been made a National Holiday, and that in general it has attained so little significance and/or recognition in the minds and hearts of our people.

I could hope that the time may soon come for grateful Americans to institute a move to bring National recognition of this perhaps, most auspicious day in our history.

Also, that in the mean time, we do ourselves the honor of paying on that day, the deserved homage of flying the American Flag over our respective premises, as well as breathing a fervent prayer of gratitude for the blessings sought for us in the enabling preamble of this Constitution on which our Nation was founded, quote: "We the people....(to) secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity, do ordain and establish this Constitution for the United States of America".

C. Austin De.Camp (Col., USA Ret.) of Carmel, Calif.

S.F. Symphony Begins 9th Los Altos Concert Series

The ninth annual San Francisco Symphony Los Altos Series, which begins Dec. 13, will include two all-Beethoven programs led by conductor-music director Josef Krips; three guest conductors; and seven guest artists in nine concerts at Foothill College.

Maestro Krips will be on the podium for five Saturday evenings, including a repeat of the popular "Night in Old Vienna" program. Conductor-elect Seiji Ozawa returns for two concerts, and guest conductors Karel Ancerl and Henry Lewis will be making Los Altos debut appearances with one concert each.

World-renowned Czech-born pianist Rudolf Firkušny opens the series with a Dec. 13 performance of Beethoven's Piano Concerto No. 2. On the same program, Maestro Krips conducts a Los Altos debut performance of the rarely heard Marosszek Dances, by the contemporary Hungarian composer, Zoltan Kodaly. Tchaikovsky's popular Symphony No. 6 ("Pathétique") completes the first program.

Foothill College audiences will have a special treat on the evening of January 3, when the Metropolitan Opera's lyric soprano Anneliese Rothenberger joins Maestro Krips for "A Night in Old Vienna." A master of the Viennese school of music, Krips last brought this entertaining program to Los Altos two seasons ago. The performance will be a repeat of a New Year's Eve special event at the War Memorial Opera House.

The Beethoven 200th Anniversary celebration is brought to the peninsula on Jan. 14, with a repeat of the All-Beethoven program which opens the regular Opera House series in December. Maestro Krips will conduct the master composer's Overture to "Egmont", and Symphonies 2 and 5.

On July 4, 1801, at a reception for about 100 persons, President Thomas Jefferson introduced the custom of having the guests shake hands instead of bowing stiffly.

Helen Wheeler Sings Sep. 17 At Town House

Next in its series of live music, the Carmel Foundation will present Helen Wheeler, lyric soprano, in a song recital, Wednesday, Sep. 17, 2:30, at the Town House, Lincoln near 8th.

Mrs. Walker studied voice in Linz and Vienna, receiving a diploma in Vienna from the Board of State Opera which provided her entree to the opera houses of Europe.

She came to the Monterey Peninsula in 1960 when her husband was stationed at Fort Ord, and has been soloist at the Church of Religious Science for many years.

The program which is free and open to the public, will include lieder and a variety of operatic selections, with some "surprise" duets. Helen Shutes will accompany on viola for part of the program. Piano accompaniments will be by Fred Schaad.

Tea will be served following the recital.

California accounts for about one-fourth of the rice produced in this country.

Sand Castles by Students

Apparently Carmelites don't easily outgrow the annual Sand Castle Contest at Carmel Beach.

One of the entries drawing the most comment was an excavation containing a squatting man holding his "Finger in the Dyke" dug and sculpted by a group of college students, all Carmel High School alumni.

Among them were Ralph Forbes, Larry Bourdeau and Steve Edwards who were joined by Pete Gamble, Bud Brey, Scott and Tia Hennessy and Dean Funk.

When asked what they were studying at college someone quipped, "Sandbox III."

American Field Service members were equal to the day as they worked on a Giant Frog. One wonders what Rene Madelaire, new Danish exchange student wrote home to his parents about this most unusual custom.

"Ban the pipe at the north end of Carmel Beach" said one effective entry by Ward Gillette and Robert Lowery of Carmel High. Topped by a trash can containing water, they somehow managed to have water dripping from a pipe into a hole containing a revolting mess of beer cans, orange skins and other litter.

One hopes that beach visitors could take the hint.

A splendid Tortoise and Hare was constructed by Alfie's Group consisting of Laurie Rich, Michael Bodell, Dianna Darke, Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Pia and S. Grover Rich, all of Carmel.

Barbara Rainer and son Scott who is entering Middle School, were guarding the family project, "The Widow Lives Alone," an enormous black widow spider, from marauding dogs.

"The contest has gotten so big," she remarked, from what it was before they left for Greece two years ago.

She was pleased that one of their dear friends had sent them the Carmel Pine Cone the whole time so that they could keep up (two months late) with Carmel news.

The Brock family collaborated on a huge and peculiar looking duck with feathers, who was asking a most appropriate question, "Are you my Mommy?"

Robinson Jeffers, grandson of the great Carmel Point poet, was constructing a frog with bulging eyes and near him his brother Donnan worked away.

A truly well done horse in full gallop, worthy of a more permanent medium, was created by Shawn Brandt of Carmel Valley.

There were several mermaids, one by Eric and Stephen Bickford, but the most lifelike of the reclining sand figures was the sun bather dressed in fetching fresh yellow daisies and nylon wig, done by Jan Garrison of Middle School.

A large and extensive cluster of Baha'i Temples was built by some young people, Greg and Keith Dahl of Pebble Beach and Karen and Toby Weir of Carmel among them. They were encouraged by the Middle East music of a guitar and harmonica played by Seaside friends.

An adorable little pre-Sandbox tyke was Cynthia Still.

And so it went on this remarkable sunny day, following as it did the thunder and lightning of the previous evening.

Hawaii

Photographer Marie Van Auken has returned from several months in Hawaii. She is now assisting Murle Ogden in his photographic studio

Kellie Garner of Carmel Valley is being shown how to use a Kodak M12 movie camera by her teacher, Richard Hilton of the Film Production class at Carmel High School, first project of which will be a film to be used for orienting incoming freshmen. The department will work closely with the other creative arts classes in graphics, commercial art, wood and metal shop, ceramics and art, he said. Film production is a form of communication, said Hilton, "a new language in which students can express themselves. The student we lost in English, we get back through film. The more he perceives, the more he understands, and he finds himself writing scripts. Who can say that the course is not pre-vocational in this day of television and movies?"

Julie Fehring

An article by Julie Fehring, a Carmel High School graduate, now a sophomore at Stanford, appeared in the August Special Issue of the PACE Magazine. It is called "I Want a Future."

Julie, the daughter of the Ted Fehring's, has traveled extensively with the Up With People group.

AAUW Tea

Continuing, new and prospective members of the American Association for University Women are invited to the annual membership tea to be held on Sunday, Sep. 14, at the Casa Estrada on Tyler Street, Monterey.

Hospitality chairman, Myrtle Youngman and her committee will serve tea from 3 to 5 p.m.

Topics to be explored this year are "The Human Use of Urban Space," "This Beleaguered Earth - Can Man Survive?"; "American Foreign Policy: Dilemmas and Realities of Power" and "The Academic Community - New Look on Campus."

Membership Chairman, Marilyn McMasters, will be happy to answer questions.

Republican Women Meet

Next general membership meeting of the Carmel Republican Women's Club will be Tuesday, September 16, a no-host luncheon at the Officers Club, Presidio of Monterey as guests of Adm. and Mrs. C.W. Fisher.

"The History of the Presidio of Monterey" will be given by Col. Kibbey M. Horne, Commandant of the Defense Language Institute.

Col. Horne recently spoke at the Sloat Landing Ceremonies.

For reservations call Mrs. Douglas Brown, 624-2677 or Mrs. C. Hanson at 372-3621, also for transportation, by Monday Sep. 15.

Arrived in Vietnam

Paul Downing McGookin, the son of Mrs. Floyd Field, recently arrived in Vietnam where he is in the Combat Security Police of the Air Force.

Paul attended Monterey Peninsula College and Fresno State.

Millers In New Home

Ione and Jack Miller have moved into their new home in Hatton Fields, the building of which has been a family project for many months, sandwiched in between other jobs of her building contractor husband.

"This is positively the last move," said Ione, who is thrilled with her new floors.

The family just returned from a week at Tahoe where they went to recuperate from moving. While there they checked up on Heavenly Valley where many improvements have been made for next winter's skiing season.

Son Jay entered Monterey Peninsula College this week and Tina returned to the University of Nevada where she is a junior. Raymie is a sophomore at Carmel High School.

A champagne reception in the Carmel Knolls garden of Mr. and Mrs. Peter L. Hatton followed the late August wedding of Mrs. Hatton's niece, Sharon Lynne Funchess and George M. Carroll at Carmel Mission Basilica. Sharon, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Funchess of Hanford, former Carmel residents, is the great-granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Winton Askew, early Carmel settlers. Sharon, a graduate of Monterey Peninsula College and San Francisco State College, is a teacher. Her husband will continue studying at Fullerton State College.

Fol de Rol In Furs At Holiday Inn

For the remainder of September, Mary Jane Spence, director of the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art, is dividing her time between the Carmel gallery and the new Monterey location across from Colton Hall.

Much work needs to be done at the new location: partitions must come down on the two floors, gallons of paint must be purchased and volunteer painters will be needed.

To that end, the Fur Fol De Rol to be held September 13 on the top deck of the new Holiday Inn has been planned by the board of trustees of which Mrs. William (Maggie) Arnold is president.

Twenty nine people have been chosen to model the furs during the dinner at 8 p.m., preceded by a no host cocktail hour.

Don Blanks Is Wed In Fresno

The wedding of Lambie Brash of Fresno and Don Blanks of Carmel took place at the College Community Church in Fresno on August 23. Rev. Victor Davis, former director of religious education at the Church of the Wayfarer performed the 4 p.m. ceremony. Lambie is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Brash of Fresno. She and Don, the son of Carmel councilman Herbert Blanks and Mrs. Blanks, will return to Fresno State College for their senior year. Don was an outstanding basketball player at Carmel High School from which he graduated in 1965.

Dan Searle, Jr. Married

A reception at the Carmel Valley Golf and Country Club followed the wedding on August 23 of Dan Howland Searle, Jr. of Monterey and Kristin Olivia Lundberg of Canton, Ohio. The Conte Four provided music for dancing.

The marriage took place at the First Presbyterian Church in Monterey, the Rev. Mark Penoyer officiating. Jean Canada was soloist.

Kristin's bridal attendants were her sisters, dressed in brilliant yellow floor length Thai silk sheaths from Bangkok. They wore crowns of Talisman rosebuds and yellow daisies and carried nosegays of the same flowers.

Best man was John Ables of Salinas, and ushers included Richard Nicholas, Jerry Butts and Michael Monroe, all of Pebble Beach and Robert Swanston of Salinas.

The bride met her future husband at Monterey, Peninsula College after graduating from the Singapore American School in the Republic of Singapore. She is a graduate of the University of Pacific where she did graduate work for her teaching credential.

Dan, who attended Robert Louis Stevenson School and graduated from Pacific Grove High School, attended the University of Arizona where he was affiliated with Kappa Sigma fraternity. Before his marriage he was a member of the Bachelors of San Francisco.

After their wedding trip to Lake Shasta, the couple will live in Monterey where the groom is affiliated with his father of Searle Electric Co. and the bride will teach second grade.

Dan's mother is Mrs. Viola Nicholas of Monterey.

Although the cost of living is up 183% since 1935, typical PG&E gas and electric rates are down 13.9%.

Of course your PG&E bill is bigger now because you use more gas and electricity for the comforts and conveniences of modern living.

It cost more to heat and light this house 34 years ago.

longer than he had planned...finding it difficult to leave our beautiful coastline. Although his mission here was to survey and report on U.S. national parks, he enjoyed not only Pt. Lobos, but swimming at Stewart's Beach, a favorite of the Barrons.

Mary Barron, who is studying French at the Monterey Institute of Foreign Studies, acted as guide and interpreter for Jean Patrick, and Jerry Barron, who returned from 4 months in Europe during the last few days, enjoyed exchanging opinions not only of France but of the U.S.

Jean Patrick will return for an extended visit at the Barrons next summer, he says. He is one of 40 French students chosen from all over France, who annually qualify for a summer scholarship. He has "almost" persuaded Mary Barron to enroll for her junior year at the University of Strasbourg, after she completes advanced French studies at the Institute and her second year at Monterey Peninsula College.

Jerry Barron left this past Tuesday to enroll at the University of San Francisco's School of Law.

Following immediately after Jean Patrick's visit...the Lewis P. Mays and two sons, Peter and Bruce, of Oakland.

Mr. May, a classmate of Gerald Barron's at USF's School of Law, was sworn in as a municipal judge in Oakland on September 5, and invited the entire Barron family to the ceremony and to be his weekend guests.

Mrs. Paula Hess of Piedmont, a mutual friend of the Barrons and Mays, who has just concluded a weeks' vacation here in Carmel, also entertained at cocktails for the Barrons over the weekend.

BICENTENNIAL HELPERS—Youngsters volunteer their services to aid in the Bicentennial Medallion distribution. They are packaging medals to be sent to the 114 sales outlets throughout Monterey County. The bronze and silver medallions are being sold in banks, savings and loan association offices, hotels, motels and some restaurants and stores. Sales have been so brisk that most of the medals are sold out, with more expected to arrive in about a week. From left: Lynn Evans, Marsha Sanchez, Steven Sanchez and Ginny Davis.

Librarian's Notebook

By Ruth Galvin Thornburg, City Librarian

The first publication in honor of the Old Monterey Bicentennial to come to our attention is The Medical History of Monterey County.

It was written by three doctors of this area — John Welton, John Gratiot, and Paul Michael. This small book is exceedingly interesting. The medical history is naturally bound up with other local history, the entire thing being illustrated with photographs. As it makes it's concise way down through the years, familiar names keep popping into view, and this gives the book an immediate interest. Read this one as a part of your background work before the Bicentennial celebration begins.

Robert Sherwin is a divorce lawyer who believes that divorces should be kept as pleasant and compatible as possible. Coming at a time when California has changed its divorce laws in order to bring about just such an effect, lawyer Sherwin's book Compatible Divorce should be most helpful.

The author believes that compatibility should be maintained for the sake of the children and should extend until long after the divorce has been granted.

The collecting of cut glass is popular again, and a new book entitled American Cut Glass was written by J.M. and Dorothy Pearson. This book will be in the reference collection and can be consulted there at any time.

A mobile population needs all the guidance it can get when faced with the moment of truth in purchasing a new car.

What You Should Know Before You Buy A Car by Anthony Till. You could make some sort of bad play upon words there. How about "Do Not Buy Until You Check With Till"? Oh Alright, it was just a thought.

Anyway, the book gives you all the things you should look for in a car and in a car dealer, and best of all, it tells you what to beware of. There is a lot of information about financing your new car, and this is important.

Pictures in The Last of the Mountain Men make the book look like a literary put-on because it is almost impossible to believe that anyone would grow a beard like Sylvan Hart's, but he did, and he had his picture taken with it. Harold Peterson found Sylvan Hart living alone and entirely self-sufficient, somewhere on the River of No Return in Idaho. The Last of the Mountain Men is the story of Hart's life, his activities, and even some of his philosophy.

The underground raucous reports of the invasion of Czechoslovakia in August of 1968 are all reported in a new book by Joseph Wechsberg. It is called The Voices. Once again we have a story of incredible fortitude, each man holding his brother in love and all working together.

These books may not really send you, but there is good information in all of them and in this hectic life, information is valuable and this is where you can find it.

There were 41 million visits to the 17 National Forests of California in 1968.

'First Nighter' Tickets To Circle In Successful Sale

With the gala opening night of the Circle Theatre's 1969-70 winter season less than two weeks away, on Sep. 19, the First Nighters Season Ticket sale has met with rousing success according to Mrs. Allan Weinfield, the theatre's treasurer and director of the summer season hit, "Sweet Charity."

First Nighter Season Tickets admit the holder to the seven Broadway successes to be presented by the Golden Bough Players at a "bargain" price.

First Nighter Season tickets are available in all parts of the peninsula through volunteer team captains and their teams.

Leading in the race of sales to date is Mrs. Betty Fowlston of Carmel.

"After all, I should wave my flag for the Circle" Mrs. Fowlston stated, "I've been a Golden Bough player since its beginning and have appeared in more than 50 roles."

Carmel Team Captain, Mrs. Jane Edson Parker reports as her other top sellers, Mrs. Georgia von Richter of Carmel and J. J. Sweeney of Pebble Beach.

Director and business manager of the Circle, Michael Keller has announced productions for the 1969-70 season:

Opening Sep. 19: "The Studio Opens With Hit

"Don't Drink the Water," opening September 19 at the Studio Theatre-Restaurant in Carmel, marked Woody Allen's transition from top television comic to Broadway playwright. His success was instantaneous. The prestigious David Merrick produced his show, the critics loved it and popular demand sustained a run of 598 performances.

The frothy plot concerns a tourist couple, the Hollanders, and their daughter Susan, played in New York by Lou Jacobi; Kay Medford and Anita Gillette, who have to take refuge in an American Embassy somewhere behind the Iron Curtain after being mistaken for spies.

As luck would have it, the absent ambassador has left affairs in charge of his son Axel whose diplomatic career has been marked by monumental blunders in one country after another. Within a week, the Hollanders have wrecked the embassy routine, the two young people have fallen in love and a wild-eyed scheme to smuggle the stranded Americans across the border clearly bears the Axel trademark of incipient disaster.

Assorted characters involved in the rapid-fire succession of events include an eccentric priest, a distraught embassy aide, a temperamental chef, an Arab sultan and the chief of the secret police.

The Studio production, under the direction of Bill Asp, will play Friday, Saturday and Sunday evenings for seven weekends following the Sept. 19 opening. Reservations for dinner and show or show alone may be made at 624-1661 or 624-2321.

Owl and the Pussycat," Bill Manhoff's "battle of the sexes," termed "hilarious" by New York critics.

Oct. 31: "Someone Waiting" a spine tingling mystery by the master of thrillers, Emlyn Williams.

Dec. 19: Christmas season glitter and fun: Moss Hart's "Light Up the Sky."

Feb. 8: "Crucible" by the noted dramatist Arthur Miller.

Through the Easter season there will be special performances of Lenore Coffey's tender classic: "Family Portrait."

April 17: Currently playing to S.R.O. audiences in New York City, "Cactus Flower."

Several of the scheduled productions are subject to negotiation and release for little theatre production.

For more information regarding First Nighter tickets call the theatre office in Sunset Center-624-2669.

Stage Review

George M.!—Oh, those old-time songs! A play based loosely on the life story of George M. Cohan, one of the greatest "song and dance" men of all times. Loud, brassy, pushy, egotistical, but with an undeniable genius, Cohan dominated Broadway for most of 25 years. The cast at the Studio turns in a superior set of performances, and the play is sheer delight from the first curtain. Dinner and the show constitutes the outstanding entertainment bargain on the entire peninsula. You must have reservations! Call 624-1661 or 624-2321.

Movie Review

The Love Bug — Walt Disney's whimsical story about a small car (a Volkswagen, to be commercial) with human emotions and the ability to drive itself. Dean Jones is a discouraged race driver, Buddy Hackett is the mechanic. At the Valley Cinema.

The Trouble With Girls — Elvis Presley stars in this comedy about a Chautauqua and the small towns its performers visit in the 1920s. Great supporting performances, including Carmel's Michael Keller of the Community Theater. At the Marina Auto Movie.

Funny Girl — Barbra Streisand's first movie. Life story of Fanny Brice. Omar Sharif as gangster Nick Arnstein is outstanding. Walter Pidgeon too. At the Regency.

Midnight Cowboy—Jon Voight is a Texas drifter who winds up in New York, and Dustin Hoffman is a corrupt con man who serves as his guide. This is a highly recommended, extremely thoughtful comedy. At the Steinbeck on Cannery Row. The Odd Couple — Jack Lemmon is Felix, who practically faints at the sight of a speck of dust, Walter Matthau is the sportswriter who wallows in it. They try to make a go of sharing an apartment, and that's the basis for the comedy. Great stuff. At the Village.

Goodbye, Columbus — Tightly directed story about a young Jewish-American love affair based on Phillip Roth's story. Bittersweet comedy about a young man trying to break the routine of life and a rich college girl tied to her family background. At the Village.

'Owl and Pussycat' Next for Circle

The Owl and the Pussycat," a merry farce-comedy about education that has nothing to do with school will be the first attraction of the 1969-70 Circle Theatre Season, opening Sep. 19. "The Owl and the Pussycat," by playwright Bill Maghoff, achieved a triumphant success in New York in the 1964-65 season.

Here is an oddball, city-wise romance like no other. The characters are vibrant, high-pitched young lady (the pussycat), and a self-righteous book clerk (the owl), who tells himself he is a great writer of the future.

Starring in this hilarious sugfest is Joyce Malikoff as Doris and Paul Elliott as Felix.

The comedy's fun begins when the Pussycat comes to the Owl's apartment late one night with the intent to scratch his eyes out to repay his getting her evicted from her apartment across the way for having practiced her profession with the shades up.

His first mistake is to open his door to her knock, against his rule never to let in a stranger after midnight. He is a gallant type, who is touched by her tale of having nowhere else to sleep, and he lets her stay. Then the uproariously funny race is on as to who will educate whom.

her that she really had a mind, and Doris convinces him that he has a body.

"The Owl and the Pussycat" is directed by Roy Baxter with a car for keeping its war-and-peace between the sexes always bubbling entertainingly.

After its opening on the 19th, the Circle Theatre will go back to its Fall-Winter performance schedule playing Fridays and Saturdays at 8:30 p.m., and an early curtain Sundays only at 7:30 p.m.

Reservations and group discount bookings for "The Owl and the Pussycat" may be made now by calling the theatre box office at 624-2669.

PARTY PLANS . . .

by Phyllis Jervey

Party Plans Editor Phyllis Jervey is on vacation, basking in the sun on the warm sands of Maryland.

We will have guest columnists fill in from time to time, but for this issue, the Pine Cone editor must make do with gleanings from previous Party Plans, and with the contributions we receive in a flood from food companies, accessory manufacturers, farmers, ranchers and dozens of other sources, all of whom try to hide their advertising message with varying degrees of subtlety in what is ostensibly straight feature story material.

Meantime, let's start with part of last week's Party Plans that just didn't quite get in.

During the Boxer Rebellion in 1900, Empress Dowager Tzu-hsi, who had escaped from Peking, stopped in the poorest area of the Huai Lai district. The Empress Dowager saw "Beggars' Chicken" being cooked and ordered one to be prepared in the same fashion. After that, this dish was included in the list of court dishes. Somewhat complicated to prepare, it is so superior to other methods for open-air cooking, that many have adopted this way instead of barbecuing on beaches or backyards today.

Stewed String Beans

Two T. sesame oil; ½ lb. bacon, julienned in 1 in. slivers; 1½ T. green onion, minced; 1 t. ginger root, crushed; 1 T. soy; 1 t. salt; 1 cup water; 1 lb. green stringbeans, washed, ends removed, strung and cut into 1 inch lengths.

Bring sesame oil to a boil; add bacon, onion and ginger. Fry while stirring. Add soy and bring again to a boil with water. Add stringbeans and cover. Simmer until tender. Serves 4. Serve hot with butter added. You have to like green onion, ginger and soy as these dishes all contain these items!

Melon, kumquats, loquats, lichee nuts and almonds top off this delightful miniature Imperial meal. Jasmine tea and perfumed fingerbowls with small towels dipped in fragrant warm water and wrung, add to the tradition. The book contains as illustrations rare old Chinese ceramics. All recipes are authentic representative examples of the Ch'ing Dynasty—transcribed for modern usage.

A most intriguing book to read in connection with "Court Dishes of Old China" is one in your reporter's father's library when he was in China. It is "Indiscreet Letters From Peking" beginning May 1900 and edited by B.L. Putnam Weale, published by Dodd, Mead and Company in 1907. What an exciting story of the siege and sack of a distressed capital in 1900..the year of great tribulation..the Boxer Rebellion!

Hesitate to serve a curry to the family because it seems too spicy? Then remember that the secret of preparing curry that everyone like is simply to learn to proper amount of curry to use. Start with a small amount and increase it each time you make the dish until you reach the amount the family prefers.

For many, curry provides a new experience in flavors. What's even nicer is that it can be very easy to prepare. This beef curry relies on succulent canned roast beef with gravy to shorten making and cooking time to a few minutes.

The fully cooked canned meat is ready for heating and eating; and its nicely seasoned gravy blends with the curry to make lucious sauce. Fluffy hot rice and typical curry accompaniments add interest.

Family Beef Curry

1 small tart apple, pared, cored and diced
1 small onion chopped
¼ cup butter or margarine
1 to 2 teaspoons curry powder
2 cans (12 oz. each) roast beef with gravy
Hot cooked rice
Raisins, chutney, salted peanuts, etc.

Saute apple and onion in butter until tender. Add curry powder; cook 2 minutes more, stirring constantly. Add roast beef with gravy; heat. Serve on rice with desired accompaniments.

Makes 6 servings.

MPC Traffic Reg.

All Monterey Peninsula College students - day and evening - are required to secure a copy of and read a sheet listing MPC's traffic regulations, according to Willard Stallworth, campus policeman.

The regulations were handed to students registering this week but were not sent to those evening students who pre-registered by mail.

Special emphasis is placed in the regulations list on the rule that "parking slots outlined in yellow paint are reserved for faculty and staff and may not be used by students," Stallworth said.

informative lectures by museum research director Mrs. Betty Hoag.

This program was to prepare the docents as museum guides during the museum's September exhibition of California Mission paintings by Edwin Deakin.

This exhibition is provided in cooperation with the California Arts Commission and is on loan from the Los Angeles County Museum of Natural History.

The docents are available daily for general information concerning the show and as guides for Monterey Peninsula students who have been invited to view the exhibition.

Blown Glass, Paintings Are Feature Of MPMA Exhibit; Final For Carmel

Free form blown glass in color or metallic effect by Dr. Robert Fritz, and shadowy, mirrored patterns of nudes in drawings and paintings by John De

Fritz Glass

Vincenzi, are being shown through September 27 in the final exhibit in the Lincoln Street quarters south of Ocean, of the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art.

Fritz, an Ohioan, followed his doctorate at Ohio State with study in Germany with glassblower Erwin Eisch and Professor Harvey Littleton at the University of Wisconsin.

At San Jose State College, he has started one of the first college courses in glass-blowing on the West Coast.

Some of his asymmetrical glass forms could be useful, that is, they could be used to hold flowers or leaves, but all are worthy of a spot where they can be properly shown and appreciated.

De Vincenzi, native of San Jose, also teaches at San Jose State where he did his undergraduate work.

He seems to be fascinated by the patterns made by the graceful female body, often reclining, and sometimes combines several angles of the same pose in one picture.

These come off very well in the black and white drawings. The faceless creatures in his paintings, however, to me seem unfinished and drab.

On October 1, the new Monterey location of the museum, at 559 Pacific Street, former county building, will open, but in the meantime, in spite of remodeling, the life workshops with live model, formerly held at Sunset Center, will continue on Wednesdays, from 9:30 to 12:30 a.m.

Due to the move, the eight week Art History Series by Clarence Bates, scheduled to start on September 24, has been postponed until Spring.

Goings On

That Dean Diaz is really something. Who else would be so filled with manly pride and happiness and love as to run a display ad in the Monterey Herald when he and Josie took off from the Plaza Linda Mexican Restaurant last Tuesday at 3:30, arrived at the hospital at 4:00, and welcomed Rene Anthony Diaz at 4:30? He couldn't believe he hadn't even had time to start pacing the floor, and was so overwhelmed with gratitude for Josie and the baby's quick arrival that he just went down to the Herald and told them there was too much sadness, war, hurricanes, and pain in the newspapers—and he wanted everyone to share his happiness so he ran this ad for Josie: TO THE MOST WONDERFUL MOTHER AND WIFE THAT A HUSBAND COULD HAVE... THANK YOU FOR ANOTHER FINE HEALTHY SON. YOUR LOVING HUSBAND "DEAN." We are all happy for them too. A dear family.

The Marzi's were happy to show a group of 46 Navy Wives from the Naval Post Graduate School through their Monterey Jade factory last Tuesday afternoon after which they all dined on Quiche Lorraine or Cheddar Broil Sandwiches, followed by Dru's fabulous frozen Apricot Ginger Mousse at the Keeping Room around the corner. Glen Mewhinney has several interesting plans for future classes under discussion and consideration. Watch for announcement of class schedules. We have a most marvelous report from May Youngberg. She has sold her second house from our little Sun Drenched Carmel Valley News suppliment in the Pinecone—pretty good for four ads in as many weeks. We inadvertently reran an earlier ad so we owe her a free one this time. Forgive us, Town & Country Properties. The In and Outdoor Shop is dripping with perfectly exquisite pearls—all lengths—and all with earrings to match. Also wedding toasting goblets. Valley Lodge will be the nearest neighbor to the proposed Del Monte owned Shopping Center on Ford Road.

Rippling River is planning a public luau to be in the near future with poolside entertainment and dramatic lighting, and fantastic food to be followed later on by a Mexican night. The Carmel Valley Gallery has several Jack Swansons in various sizes, and a new lovely floral by Helen Barker in the window with others also.

Who's To Know

Marian is most pleased to have a new Brittany scene by Abel Warshawsky. The Keeping Room has mouthwatering plans for fall too. Dru says besides the Swiss Gruyere Fondue she is offering six different soups - fragrant, hearty, a full meal in themselves with Claudia's yummy oven hot bread served with them. Can't wait. Come out some noon and try Turkey Serendipity Soup - Split Pea with Sausage rings, Beef Bortch, Mushroom Curry Creme, Danish Dumpling with Chicken, Beef Pot au Feu - drooling just a little: Well just stop that - and come try a bowl.

Los Laureles Lodge says that after you have eaten all those Frozen Mousse, and Baked Apple Dumplings at Dru's Keeping Room to come on down Carmel Valley road a piece and let Doc Wiley, who runs their Hill House Health Spa, massage them off of you. It is a real feather in the Lodge's cap to be the only place in Central or Northern California to "Golden Door" or "Main Chance" your little old body into shape in inspiring surroundings and fun and friendly atmosphere. Kind of plucky for it to be in our own Sun Drenched Carmel Valley Village, huh?

Some of our Village personalities are just so durned busy it is hard to hang on to them long enough to have a chat and spin out a bit of the background lore that makes them the interesting people we know them to be today. Virginia de Maria is one of these gals, with so much talent that she may well be out in her kiln and casting room at the Rippling River Resort, when not commandeering the kitchen or whipping up a goodie herself.

She attended Cornish School in Seattle in 1943 where she majored in art. A fine school, and her native talent to absorb its good basic training have equipped Virginia with the know how to work in many mediums and today many of her efforts are to be seen in and about the buildings and grounds of Rippling River.

She intends in the near future to do a whole new look in many areas of the resort - such things as wall panels, and even chop plates and platters - new decoratives for the rooms, not only pottery, but including pebble work, papier mache, ceramic and concrete. She ants big oversized planters for the porches and around the pool and garden area. She started her tile making career with those in her own kitchen in Puget Sound area of Seattle many long years ago - and we can see her work in the Monterey Elks

Building, a gold overglaze tile which was used on the front of the building and by the pool.

All the pots on the dining room tables were done by Virginia. She says her clay library is very far reaching. One of her favorites comes from the Sierras near Angel's Camp. These are earth colors, and are high fire type. They have seven different ones all which she is experimenting with. Much good clay comes from Fresno also - which she uses for wall plaques, and planters. Her husband, Angelo, better known as Ange, provides her with kilns which he builds himself. They anticipate a huge one once he has the time to get to it - that is one great thing about the property there - lots of room for all these ambitious plans. They make an excellent team with so many of the same interests.

Virginia, when she has time will do custom work for others, and is certainly set up to do gang molds, or individual pieces. The de Marias are well worth spending some time with as interesting, talented versatile people - drop by for a drink, a marvelous champagne Eggs Benedict Breakfast on a Sunday, or a toothsome dinner any evening but Monday - and say hello to them - and don't forget their Luau party later this month - should be a whole big bag of fun.

Lucky the cattle who browse in the bucolic atmosphere of this lush valley. As one travels up the Carmel Valley Road, one passes many such pastoral scenes and in the early spring, the heavy winter coat of the cattle resembles angora as the light shows behind them, creating the effect. Rich grazing land stretches on either side of the road for miles and miles, wildly colorful with wild flowers in March and April, growing golden as the summer wears on and then when the rains come the short carpet of green transforms the meadows and mountain sides. Always beautiful; always relaxing to drive through from Route 1 to 101.

Easter in Mallorca

by Joanne Louise Nix

(This day to day Chronicle is by Joanne Louise Nix, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Nix, of Carmel. Joanne has been teaching in The American School in England for the past year.

She visited Mallorca and the sister city of Carmel, Petra during the Easter vacation, and met many of the group that has recently visited Carmel.

The Pine Cone will run Miss Nix's account through several issues.

April 5

It was 8:15 p.m. as our plane drifted over the island of Mallorca and prepared to land. The island appeared beneath us suddenly, revealing at first intermittent clusters of lights - then the icy blue and white sparkled sprawl of the City of Palma; and finally the airport, a starfish of lights in a black sea.

At night Mallorca could be any country and Palma any city. The airport was no different than any other, but we could tell it was a Mediterranean country. A cursory glance at our boarding passes and no customs inspection. In about twenty minutes we were off to our hotel in Arenal.

Arenal at night resembled downtown Honolulu; hotel after hotel lined a broad expanse of beach. Each hotel looked very nice but very commercial. We had heard that this was the most commercial part of Mallorca and I am looking forward to seeing more rural parts of the island.

April 6

Pascua En Mallorca

There was no feeling of Easter in Arenal. The hotels and shops sprawled along the beach were open for business as usual. The morning was overcast, and billowing clouds, big gray party poopers, dropped down rain intermittently and dampened the spirit of the merrymakers.

I and my roommate tiptoed over the slippery cobblestone to the bus stop which was about a 15 minute walk from the hotel.

When we boarded the bus to Palma and found all the seats occupied, we stood at the back facing the rear window. This, we soon discovered, was a very smart move for the bus began filling up until we were packed tightly against the window. The pressure of body upon body made holding onto overhead support or railings unnecessary.

Although we seemed ready to break through the sides of the bus, the driver continued packing in passengers until they began hissing and booing to force him to stop. Those aboard who were unfortunate enough to have to exit the bus before it reached the center of Palma, pounded frantically against the side of the bus and somehow managed to reach the exit by, as it looked to me, moving through the passengers between them and the door.

After 35 minutes of feeling like the inside of a Dagwood sandwich, we reach the city of Palma.

Palma is a Spanish Honolulu, and seemed just as commercial as Arenal, but after we had inquired in our broken Spanish the way to the Cathedral, we began to see buildings that were elegant momentos of an aristocratic age. We arrived at the Cathedral of Palma for Easter Mass which was celebrated in the passionate, fervent Spanish manner. The cathedral was beautiful. Grandiose and at the same time simple. When we entered, Mass had just begun, and the change in mood was sudden and striking.

The Cathedral of Palma was built by King Jaime I who promised the Queen of Heaven that he would construct a cathedral after seizing Mallorca from the Saracens. This royal promise was carried out during the reign of Jaime II, and by 1327, the building was halfway completed. Today its various chapels and three huge aisles make it a worthy monument to the Queen of Heaven.

OBITUARY

Peggy Walsh, secretary of the Monterey Peninsula Community Chest for the past 12 years, died on August 29. Born in Boston, she lived in New York in the '20's and later managed a gift shop in Pinehurst, N.C. where she married John J. Walsh. They came to Carmel in 1944. Mrs. Walsh volunteered with the Community Chest under the late Marian Boke Todd. Following her death, she served under a succession of Chest directors.

Sierra Club Announces Channel Island Tour

The Los Padres Chapter of the Sierra Club announced today that its fall series of Channel Islands cruises aboard the "Swift of Ipswich" will begin on Sep. 14.

Bank Stocks Investment Opportunity

Investors looking for investment opportunities should consider putting their extra cash in banks, according to Dean Witter & Co.

What the investment firm is talking about is bank stocks, which Dean Witter feels are "bargains" for both the conservative investor seeking safety of principal and the aggressive investor seeking capital gains.

In a research study, the investment firm says that bank stocks should be among the leaders of the general upswing in stock prices expected to take place when money conditions ease.

To support this contention, the report points out that bank stocks outperformed the market during the upswings that began in 1962 and 1966, and Dean Witter feels that history is going to repeat itself. Present price-earnings ratios are low, the earnings outlook is favorable, and the "risk/reward" ratio of these stocks, the report says, is more favorable now than in many years.

Dean Witter bases its outlook on three assumptions - that interest rates have reached their peaks, that further credit controls won't be necessary, and that the economy is about to start slowing down.

As a result, the firm says, the interest costs paid by banks to obtain funds for making loans should decline at a faster rate than the interest they receive on loans.

the ocean side of Santa Cruz Island. Albert's Anchorage is reached through Anacapa Passage between Anacapa and Santa Cruz Islands, then westward along the south shoreline of Santa Cruz past historic Smugglers' Cove and the old olive orchard; past Blue Banks where scientific experiments are conducted; along giant kelp forests and through waters which are sometimes fantastically clear.

On Sep. 20 and again on Sep. 21, the "Swift" will visit the Painted Cave of Santa Cruz Island. The cave, with an entrance 70 feet high, extends more than 500 feet under the island and is named for the lava walls which are stained by oxide of iron and copper sulphate, with strata of yellow formations and blotches of ochre, red and green lichen.

The public is invited to join club members on these popular daytime cruises which leave the Santa Barbara Dock opposite the Harbor Master's office.

Departure time for the Albert's Anchorage trip is 7:30 a.m.; for Painted Cave 8:00 a.m. Return approximately 5:00 p.m. Minimum age ten years.

Two Named To CMA Staff Survey

Two Peninsula physicians have been appointed to California Medical Association's Medical Staff Survey Committee, according to Dr. Albert G. Miller, CMA president.

They are Dr. Donald M. Scanlon of Carmel, a specialist in internal medicine, and Dr. Benjamin T. Richards of Monterey, a surgeon.

The committee surveys the organization and activities of medical staffs at hospitals throughout California.

With Bob Wood In Sacramento

The other morning I left the motel in West Sacramento on my way to the Capitol building about quarter to eight.

Traffic was heavy and as I neared the bridge that crosses the Sacramento River the traffic came to a dead stop. I noticed several people had gotten out of their cars and were running toward the bridge.

It was only then that I realized it was a drawbridge and that the bridge was many many feet above the water. I figured, and no doubt the others figured also, that it must be a huge boat that would necessitate raising the drawbridge higher into the air than it already was. I turned off the key and ran down to watch also. When I got there I couldn't help but smile.

Way down below and sailing slowly down the river was a small sailboat with a tall mast, on the deck was a solitary little old man and his dog looking up at all the commotion.

I think I would be safe in saying the traffic was backed up for one-half mile on either side of the bridge.

As I walked back to my car and watched the huge drawbridge slowly lower itself into place, I couldn't help but think how important one man can be in changing the normal pattern of our everyday living.

I couldn't help but feel how important it is if a man represents many people, or an entire state, the changes that he alone might bring about had best be good clear decisions of his own making and not decisions patterned after possible certain monetary interests whose viewpoint might be adverse to the thinking of those that live in the area affected.

Although I am sure I do not agree with the Governor of our state on all his decisions, I was proud of his decision to keep oil drilling and its potential disasters out of Monterey Bay. I am sure he could have been pressured by many groups to vote otherwise, but he proved himself to be a little bigger than the problem itself.

One man, like the one little boat, can change the patterns and ways of many.

Several of you have asked about Ingeborg Pattee, the widow of our late Assemblyman Alan Pattee. Mrs. Pattee has been in the hospital since the fateful crash last April that took the life of her husband.

The majority of that time she has been in the University of California Hospital in San Francisco. However last Friday she was moved to Sacramento where she will be with her mother.

Inge, as she is known to many, says she hopes to go to the Pattee ranch in Corral de Tierra within a few weeks.

MPC Workshop In Design Set

A Monterey Peninsula College workshop in interior design will be conducted by Mrs. Belva Sanford, Fellow of the American Institute of Interior Designers, for 12 consecutive Tuesday evenings, starting Sept. 16. Sessions will be held 7:30 to 10 p.m. in the home economics building on campus.

The workshop, designed to assist homemakers and students with immediate and future decorating plans, will include the use of professional materials—wallpapers, fabrics, floor coverings, furniture designs and floor plans—to illustrate the decoration of both modern and traditional interiors. There will also be a discussion of and professional consultation on each student's home plans.

Mrs. Sanford, now of Sanford/Young, Appraisers of Interior Furnishings, in Carmel, was Interior designer and director of the Studio of Interior Design at the J. L. Hudson Co., in Detroit, for more than 25 years. This studio maintained the largest staff of interior designers in the United States, and she was responsible for its operation as well as for the selection and training of some 45 designers working under her direction.

She was made a Fellow of AID in 1960 for her "outstanding contributions" to the Institute, was president of the Michigan chapter, a member of the national board and later a national vice president.

Registration fee for the workshop is $25, payable in advance. Checks made out to "Monterey Peninsula College," may be mailed to the MPC Community Services Office, 980 Fremont, Monterey.

Enrollment will be limited to 25 persons.

SOCIAL SECURITY AND YOU

by Raymond MacDonald

By: Raymond MacDonald
Q. Our son was wounded in Vietnam a month ago and is on his way home.

He told us that the doctors told him he wouldn't be able to walk for over a year. He is only 20 years old, and had been in the service for a year. The only work he had under Social Security, besides his military service, was for a year prior to enlisting. Can he get any disability benefits from Social Security with so little work?

A. He can now. Young disabled people, who are disabled before the age of 31, can qualify for benefits with less work credits than older individuals. In the case of your son he needs only 1½ years work credits in the three years before he became disabled to qualify.

Q. My wife died two years ago and left me with two small children. I collected a lump sum payment then but was told she hadn't worked recently enough under Social Security so I could receive monthly benefits for the children. Is there

Plant Society To Hear Dara Emery

A special guest will be the highlight of the next meeting of the Monterey Bay Chapter of the California Native Plant Society to be held on Sep. 11, in Room No. 24 of Carmel High School at 8 p.m.

Dara Emery, horticulturist from the Santa Barbara Botanical Garden will speak on "Propagation and Culture of a Select Group of Natives."

Slides to illustrate his talk will also be shown.

Refreshments will be served.

some kind of help Social Security can give me now to pay the babysitter and housekeeper.

A. Yes, there are monthly benefits payable now for the children due to a changemade in Social Security in February, 1968, which eliminated the "recent work" requirement for children to collect on their mother's account. Be sure to take the children's birth certificates with you when you apply for their benefits.

Q. I don't have a birth certificate to show I'm of retirement age. Does this mean I will not be able to receive Social Security benefits?

A. No. If a birth record does not exist, you will need to present other evidence of your age. If you were baptized as an infant and church records exist, you may obtain a baptismal certificate to prove your age. If no baptismal record exists, you may present other evidence such as school records, census records, insurance policies, children's birth certificates, drivers licenses that show your age, etc. We will assist you in obtaining the necessary evidence, but you might start looking for various documents now and bring them with you when you file an application for retirement benefits.

Christian Science Bible Lesson

"Substance" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon to be read in all Christian Science churches this Sunday. These verses from Proverbs are included: "He that hath a bountiful eye shall be blessed; for he giveth of his bread to the poor... Rob not the poor, because he is poor: neither oppress the afflicted in the gate."

All are welcome at services beginning at 11 a.m. and 5 p.m. at 1st Church of Christ, Scientist, Carmel.

Related passages read: "To ascertain our progress, we must learn where our affections are placed and whom we acknowledge and obey as God.... The objects we pursue and the spirit we manifest reveal our standpoint, and show what we are winning" (Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy).

EDITORIAL:

It was standing-room only, and for hours on end, at the recent meeting in the supervisors' chambers in the courthouse at Salinas, as the Monterey County Planning Commission conducted a public hearing on a new zoning plan for the Del Monte Forest and on a series of eight special permits sought by the Del Monte Properties Company.

While there were exceptions taken to certain parts of the zoning plan by immediately affected residents, most of the people in the crowded hearing room, seemed to be particularly disturbed by one of the eight special permits — the one which concerned development of what is generally known as the Spanish Bay area, located near Pacific Grove's Asilomar Conference Grounds.

And the Pine Cone Grove-Portola In Merger

Golden West Financial Corporation today announced that stockholders of Tamalpais Savings and Loan Association and Grove-Portola Savings and Loan Association have approved the agreements for acquisition of these institutions by Golden West Financial for Golden West common stock. All that remains for the transaction to be completed is favorable action by state and federal regulatory authorities.

Grove-Portola assets are $17 million, and its offices are in Pacific Grove and Santa Cruz.

High Rise On Beach

believes they were rightfully concerned about the Spanish Bay special permit application because that application could conceivably lead to the building of the first high-rise hotel structure on the seaward side of the Monterey Peninsula area.

While there appear to be few firm facts about specific plans in the hotel development proposal for Spanish Bay, there does appear to be at least the possibility that — if granted — the special hotel permit required could lead to the building of a six-story hotel with up to 600 units somewhere in the sixty-acre area near Asilomar, where it would be located.

It was, in fact, because of the few facts available, according to County Zoning Administrator Robert Slimmon, that the public hearing on the Spanish Bay hotel application was continued to a future date — Wednesday, Sept. 24 — when it will resume.

At the conclusion of the Sept. 24 continuation of the public hearing begun last week, the Commission is likely to act on the hotel application.

It may, therefore, be as important that interested people attend the hearing, as it was for them to have come to last week's, and to be heard by the Commission then if their views were not presented last week.

The Pine Cone urges such attendance, and such participation in the public hearing on the Spanish Bay hotel matter, because it believes that any first 'modern' high-rise hotel — in the usual spear or spiral mode — could be the beginning of the end of the special and appropriate low-rise construction, wood or stone or adobe, for which not only Carmel but the whole Monterey Peninsula area has become world-renowned.

Because the Del Monte Properties Company — which owns the Spanish Bay acres as well as thousands of others — has for so many years taken such special care in maintaining the extraordinary natural charms of an unusually endowed native environment, it is difficult indeed for the Pine Cone to believe that the company's present management would itself ever want to allow the locally detested 'high-rise' construction.

Reduced Air Group Fares

National Airlines has announced reduced group air fares for vacation tourists to Florida and the Caribbean.

J. J. McGuinness, regional sales manager, said the package is designed for groups of 25 or more persons. Unlike charters, members of the group need not belong to an organized club, but McGuinness said that the group must travel both ways together.

Several travel agencies have cooperated in the concept. Each agency adds clients to build a group of more than 25 persons. The tours leave each Friday from Los Angeles for Miami in time for Saturday departures aboard a cruise ship bound for Caribbean ports.

Tours available include an extended trip through the Bahamas, Virgin Islands and San Juan, Puerto Rico.

Auto Club In Death Survey

In a preliminary survey of traffic accidents in northern and central California over the 1969 Fourth of July holiday period, the California State Automobile Association has reported that the holiday traveler was involved in only six of the 22 fatal accidents which occurred between 6 p.m. on July 3 and midnight July 6, 1969.

The CSAA noted that of the 23 fatalities which occurred during this period 16 occurred within 25 miles of the driver's home. The accident study is part of the nationwide "BRING 'EM BACK ALIVE" program being conducted by the AAA and its affiliated clubs.

Other accident findings reported by the CSAA for the Fourth of July holiday period were:

There were 22 fatal accidents in the 45 counties of central and northern California which claimed 23 lives.

Of the 23 persons killed, 15 were in automobiles, six were pedestrians, and two were on motorcycles.

Of the 15 in automobiles, nine had seat belts available but eight belts were not using them at the time of the accident.

All but four of the 15 drivers involved in the fatal accidents had some record of prior traffic violations and/or arrests.

Investigation showed that the drivers of seven of the fatal cars had been drinking and four exceeded the new presumptive limits law of .10 per cent alcohol.

The accident study is part of the continuing study of holiday traffic accidents begun by the California State Automobile Association in California last year.

New UCSC College 5 Stresses Liberal Arts

In a press conference held last week at the University of California, Santa Cruz, Provost James B. Hall outlined the plans and programs of College Five, which will open for the first time Sept. 29 on the 2,000 acre UCSC campus.

Auxiliary In Thrift Sale

The Auxiliary of the Community Hospital of Monterey Peninsula has added impetus for its scheduled two-week Nearly New Sale at the MPVS Thrift Shop located on Broadway in Seaside beginning Sept. 16 through the 26.

With a new financial pledge to fulfill of approximately $17,500 for the purchase of a communications system for the Community Hospital, together with a recent commitment of a $500 loan for nurse's training for Mary Yarnell, hospital candy striper, the success of the fund raising project is considered of major importance.

It was announced that the communications system reportedly will be augmented by an external system to connect Community Hospital in any emergency with other county hospitals, as well as being a more effective internal system than the one now in use.

Mrs. William Hohnemann will be general chairman for the sale, with Mrs. Merrill P. Passey in charge of staffing auxiliary members to assist Mrs. George E. Lee, MPVS Thrift Shop chairman and her staff of volunteers.

According to Mrs. Hohnemann, the auxiliary will assume responsibility for supplying saleable contributions of used clothing and household items for resale at the MPVS Shop during the two-week period. Pickups can be arranged by calling one of the following members: Mrs. Edwin K. Wright, 624-4163; Mrs. William C. Schultz, 372-6926; or Mrs. Jack Westland, 624-7627.

Crown and Merrill — College Five, as yet unnamed, will offer a strong curriculum in the liberal arts.

College Five faculty fellows represent a wide range of major disciplines: art education, art history, anthropology, biology, chemistry, drama, economics, film, geology, politics, history, literature, music, oceanography, painting, philosophy, physics, poetry, psychology, sculpture and sociology.

College Five's distinctive character, however, is found in the area of the fine arts and the popular arts in the 20th century.

The arts theme of the college will be implemented through two major channels, the collegiate curriculum and through "guilds."

The curriculum offers a "core course," which combines freshman seminars and creative studio sections; the sections include work in sculpture, painting, graphics, musical composition, poetry making, prose fiction, drama and theatre, film, jazz, photography, intermedia presentations, and dance.

All College Five freshmen are required to take two terms of seminar, and two different creative studios.

The upper division curriculum of the college includes work in the psychology of creation, workshops in poetry and short fiction, the making of film, the art of printing, work in drama, the studio arts, and mixed arts media.

Poet George Hitchcock, editor of Kayak magazine, will be in academic residence at College Five for the fall and winter quarters as a UC Regents' Professor. Under his supervision, some 15 upper division students will put out two issues of the literary magazine, Kayak. The students will help Hitchcock select poems and illustrations, will work on layout, and will print, bind and mail the well-known publication which is distributed nationally to the poetic community. The two issues are to be known as "The Santa Cruz Issues of Kayak".

MPC Football Team Will Scrimmage on Saturday

By Marc Hinchey

The Monterey Peninsula College football team will undergo its second pre-season controlled scrimmage Saturday in Hayward. The Lobos will take on Chabot College of the Golden Gate Conference.

Last Saturday MPC, looking sharp on defense but a bit ragged on offense, "won" a similar scrimmage against San Jose City College. The Lobos were able to score twice, while holding the visiting Jaguars scoreless. MPC first tallied on a safety, and later on a touchdown run by quarterback Dave Stewart.

Head Coach Luke Phillips was pleased with his team's performance, and commended the squad for its hustle and hard hitting. The coach stated that he felt that the offense would smooth out the rough edges with more practice. The Lobos had only worked out a week prior to the scrimmage.

Phillips had individual praise for quarterbacks Dave Stewart (San Jose), and John "Pogo" Pettas (Monterey) running backs

Ray Dolor (Monterey), Jimmy White (Monterey) and Brad Kight (Kentucky); and ends Bill Stowers (Carmel), Jack Campbell (Carmel) and Jim Donovan (Monterey) of the offensive team.

On defense middle-guards Sal Poma (Monterey) and Ken Goff (Monterey); end Paul Murphy (Junipero Memorial), and linebackers Paul Paquin (Monterey) and Sandy McFarland (Monterey) were commended.

Backfield coach Chris Pappas was pleased with defensive backs Dan Hoffman (Pacific Grove); Dwight Greenwell (Seaside); Alva Wright (Seaside); Roland Chapman (Monterey), and R.C. Schwertferger (Seaside).

Following Saturday's scrimmage with Chabot, the Lobos will prepare for their season opener Sep. 20 when they play host to Coalinga College at MPC Stadium. Coast Conference play will start Oct. 18 when Ohlone's Renegades pay a visit. Gavilan, Hartnell and Cabrillo appear to be the toughest competition for the Wolfpack in league play.

Council May Appoint Two Officials Now Elected

By Gunnar Norberg

Next April Carmel voters will be asked, for the first time, to vote for or against the following ballot question:

"Shall the offices of city clerk and city treasurer be appointive?"

Four of the five members of the City Council decided unanimously last week to place that question before the voters next spring.

The absent Councilman was Herbert Blanks, who is now in the last year of his second term on the Council, and who serves along with Mayor Barnery Laiolo as a member of the Council's committee on administration, which was said to favor placing the question on the ballot.

The proposal to put the future status of the city clerk and of the city treasurer before voters, was made to the City Council by City Administrator Hugh Bayless who also holds the presently elective post of city clerk. (City Treasurer John Rennels did not participate in making the proposal to the Council.)

In cities in which the City Council delegates its executive duties to an employed city manager, it is customary for the positions of city clerk and city treasurer to be appointive rather than elective, though it is necessary first to submit the question of appointive or elective status to voters as the Carmel City Council decided last week to do next April.

While the City Council decided in 1965 to create the position of city administrator, now occupied by Bayless, it did not establish a city manager's job. It might seem as if there would be little difference between the two positions—city administrator and city manager—but the difference is actually substantial. Normally a city manager is empowered by the city council he serves to employ and discharge city department heads such as the police chief, fire chief, and the street superintendent, and other key city employees such as the city clerk and the city treasurer, when such positions have become appointive instead of elective. Carmel's city administrator does not have such hire-and-fire authority, that authority being retained by the City Council.

Just before last year's municipal election, the City Council reduced the pay of the city clerk from $600 a month to a nominal $100 a month. Since the same man Bayless held both positions, and still does the level of his combined city-administrator-city-clerk pay remained the same because the reduction in city clerk pay was simply added to his city administrator compensation.

In his report to the Council, Bayless said "There are members of the Council who may remember times when the Council's lack of control over the two elected positions of Clerk and Treasurer have created considerable difficulty for the Council."

The difficulty with regard to the clerk's job occurred in 1962 when the then clerk ceased to perform his functions, but did not resign until the following year. The reference to "Council difficulty with the treasurer's position simply has to do with the reluctance, in recent years particularly, of the Council to submit the treasurer's job to the decision of the electorate, though the law requires that it be so submitted every four years.

Because Carmel is still a small town with fewer than 5,000 permanent inhabitants, it seems to many local residents that the characteristic institutions of such a town should be maintained and two such institutions are the elective offices of city clerk and city treasurer. On the other hand, Carmel—quite astonishingly—is now operating on a million-dollar-a-year-plus budget, and the claim is sometimes made that the handling of the larger funds requires greater skills than before.

In the case of the only proposal brought before the Council last week, which did not win unanimous approval of Councilmen present, the matter was left to be resolved at a future meeting. The matter involved was whether or not Carmel should set up a business-license review board. The board's function would be to decide whether or not a particular applicant should be issued a business license. Councilman Eben Whittlesey objected to the language of the review board ordinance and Mayor Laiolo referred it to a committee to be composed of Bayless, Whittlesey, and City Attorney William Burleigh.

In other action, Mayor Laiolo appointed himself as the city's voting delegate at the forthcoming annual meeting of the League of California Cities, and named Councilman Blanks as his alternate.

An ordinance establishing official street grades on Scenic Between Ocean ave. and 8th st. was adopted, while an ordinance amending dog licensing and animal regulation rules was approved on first reading.

Sometimes the city's contingency fund, intended for emergency use, is hardly disturbed during an entire year. Last week, however, $3,000 was taken from that fund to provide drainage facilities at the city's new land-fill site near the Carmel river. (The fund totals $10,000).

After receiving three bank offers to borrow the sum of $112,000, the Council decided to reject all of them and, instead, use its own reserves. The Council felt the interest rates of 6.8% to 7%, were too high. The loan considered was one of an annual series, begun in 1966 when the City Council built the police-station-public-works-building on north Junipero st.

While a city generally seeks to retain its reserves in the funds in which they have been set aside—in this case, "green belt" reserves state law does not require City Councils so to Retain them.

Bicentennial Coins Popular

According to Robert C. Littlefield, chairman of the Old Monterey Bicentennial Medallion Committee, the sale of the Commemorative Medals has far exceeded expectations, with initial goals well surpassed.

"We hope the public will be patient a little while until our next shipment arrives by airfreight next week," he said, explaining that 6000 of the 1½" bronze and 1000 of the 1½" silver medals should arrive soon.

Sold out are the original shipments of 1½" and 2½" silver medals and the 2½" bronze medals. There is a fair supply of the 1½" bronze still available however.

There are 114 sales locations in Monterey County, including banks, savings and loan associations, motels, hotels, some restaurants and shops, with more locations to be added when supplies of the medals permits. The delivery of the handsome medallions is subject to delay because of limited supply of silver for the minting.

Profits from the sale of the Commemorative Medallions will help finance the activities of the forthcoming Bicentennial Celebration in Monterey County.

Market Comments

by

Allman Cook

Dow Theory Business and Stock Market Forecasts letter dated Sep. 5 states: "A test in the near future of the late July lows of 801.96 for the industrial average and 193.19 for the rail average would be very significant, under our interpretation of the Dow Theory.

In such a test, the ability of one or both averages to stay above those points would be an excellent indication of strength and would suggest that most of the trouble for the year was over.

On the other hand, joint violation of those lows—especially on increasing volume—would be an ominous sign of the first degree and would suggest that lower prices are ahead for the fall and winter."

The Coeur d'Alene area in northern Idaho accounts for nearly half the silver produced in this country.

Senate Bill To Tax Churches

One bill which will qualify as a step in tax reform was approved by the legislature, a bill removing exemptions for taxation of business enterprises operated by churches.

SB 1127, Beilenson, will start tax on these businesses Jan. 1 of next year at a rate of 7% (the corporation tax rate).

The bill defines "unrelated business income" as gross income derived from a trade or business not substantially related to the exempt purpose.

In addition to removing a major exemption, the bill also will require churches and religious organizations and certain educational and charitable organizations to file an annual return with the state. This will give a foundation for better information on the extent of these now tax exempt organizations.

PANORAMIC VIEW OF LOBOS AND THE VALLEY Yes, we have a two-bedroom, den or third bedroom two-bath view living room and dining area home up Martin Road - a quiet cul du sac. It has been reduced $55,000 for a rapid sale to permit owners to move to Park Lane.

LOOKING FOR AN INVESTMENT? We have two w built-in tenants - one is up on the East side of Santa R - 3d South of 2d Ave. It is a two-bedroom, one-bath one-carport split-level home with a storage room add for $27,500.

The other is a three-bedroom, two-bath, family room immaculate home on Mission Fields road. Examination of this property will convince you that you should extend the lease of the present tenants. ## Cultural request. Cultural Commission Chairman Paul presented the Commission's answer to his leave application that the application for leave of absence be denied.

Since the last sentence of Weston's letter to the Commission had said that if his application for leave were to be denied, he would then "... with great regret, have to tender" his resignation, the Commission proposed to the City Council that it accept such a resignation, to become effective November 1st.

Since the Cultural commission's action in the Weston matter is only advisory, the denial of leave and the recommendation to accept a resignation from Weston is only tentative. Final determination will be made by the City Council with regard to a leave for Weston or an alternative resignation by him.

In the only other matter before the Commission, it decided to purchase a gold-flecked-with-green carpeting from Miller Rugmasters at an approximate cost of $5,800, for installation at Sunset auditorium, where new seating now is being installed.

People Club

Will Record Dance

The People Club of the All Saints Episcopal Church will have its first record dance of the year on Friday evening, Sep. 19 from 8 to 10 p.m.

The People Club, which is made up of 7th and 8th graders, has, in the past, held its dances on Saturday evenings, but now the dances will be held on Friday the first Friday of each month after this initial dance.

The group is sponsored by Fr. Arthur Cunningham and other parishoners of All Saints' and parents are urged to bring club members to the entrance of Parish Hall on Lincoln St., then pick them up promptly at 10 p.m.

Admission to the dance is a whole quarter.

New Kiwanis Member Is Introduced

Carmel Kiwanis president Web Downer introduced new member Carson Pecknold at last Thursday's luncheon meeting at the Pine Inn, then the members heard Chuck Dawson, son of Pete Dawson, describe his experiences with the Fellowship of Christian Athletes.

Young Dawson, a Carmel High School athlete attended a 5-day camp of the group in Ashland, Ore., in August.

He showed films of the Dog Patch Olympics and the Christian activities that are features of the camp, and described the operations of the Oregon camp and the 15 others sponsored in the beginning, by the Fellowship and the Kiwanis Clubs. Now other service organizations, recognizing the value of the movement, are assisting.

Thrift Shop Proceeds Totals $1,000

The net proceeds from the Thrift Shop of the Monterey Peninsula Volunteer Services during the week of Aug. 25, in the amount of $1,087 has been presented to the Rehabilitation Services and Volunteers of the Peninsula, for their use in assisting the severely disabled in this area.

The above amount will be allocated to the cost of the station wagon used to transport the severely disabled whom the organization serves.

The purpose of the Rehabilitation Services is to strengthen and increase the ability of the handicapped to undertake projects that will afford emotional and social growth. Currently acting as secretary of this group is Mrs. Elaine Castro of Pacific Grove.

Workers representing the Rehabilitation Services gathered materials for sale during the week, and several members assisted the regular MPVS staff in the work of sorting, arranging and selling the goods on display.

The MPVS Thrift Shop on Broadway in Seaside has allocated the forthcoming two weeks in September (16 through 26) to the Auxiliary of the Community Hospital for a "nearly new" sale to benefit the Auxiliary.

Members are currently gathering materials for the sale, and household articles as well as clothing are urgently needed.

Mrs. William H. Hohnemann is General

Chairman for the Auxiliary for the Thrift Shop period, and Mrs. Merrill P. Passey will be in charge of staffing Auxiliary members to assist the regular MPVS volunteers on duty during the two weeks of the sale.
